

Thank-you so much! The presentations were great and the students really loved it, exactly what we were looking for and the insight you gave was very impressive, thanks for sharing your wisdom with our students!

The event was aimed at students who were looking to start their own business with nothing more than an idea, so your story provided a great example of how it can be done and thanks again for sparing some of your time and helping to make the event a success.

It was great to meet you, your dad and your videographer Chris on Thursday, always nice to put faces to names.

Thank you again for the presentations you gave, they were really interesting and gave the students a fantastic insight into how to set up a new business (especially starting out with little financial backing!).

We've had a lot of positive feedback from students, particularly as you are a young entrepreneur and thanks again for coming down last week. If we have any future events which we think you might be interested in, I'll be in touch
